LETTER FROM THE EDITOR...

And we're back for another round!

There are so many fun goodies inside this issue, I cannot wait for you to lay eyes on them all! From the sweetest (yet most sour) theme that includes its own printable pack, through to exciting new games you probably haven't heard of before - the creative and unique ideas within are well and truly worth the read.

And to top all of that off, we've also started a NEW section dedicated to REAL parties. That's right - fellow planners from around Australia (and the world!) share what their celebrations involved, piccies from their special day and more #weareexcited

Once again, a big thank-YOU for your support. You are the absolute best - not only for downloading this magazine and supporting our website, but also for taking the time to ensure your best friend's day is as amazing as possible (she's a lucky gal to have you by her side!).

I hope you enjoy everything this issue has to offer. As always, get in touch if you have any questions or wish to be part of our next mag. My virtual door is always open (bec@foreveryhen.com.au)!

Until next time - much love, keep smiling!

FEATURED THEME: MAIN SQUEEZE

"a fun, beautiful, sophisticated and sweet (yet sour!) theme that suits all kinds of events"

SHE FOUND HER MAIN SQUEEZE!

A fun, beautiful, sophisticated and sweet (yet sour!) theme that suits not only hen parties, but also bridal showers and kitchen teas! The perfect combination of bright colours, neutral tones, fun games and unique activities will ensure that it's a celebration to remember. For all of the inspiration you'll need to host your very own Main Squeeze bridal themed event, see below.

TIPS FOR HOSTING A 'MAIN SQUEEZE' THEMED EVENT

ARTICLE WRITTEN BY BEC OF 'FOR EVERY HEN'

Outfits:

This is a fun and sophisticated theme that doesn't require particular outfits to pull off. That being said, a neat casual, or even a 'favourite summer ensemble' dress code will pair nicely with your main squeeze party.

If you would prefer guests to coordinate their clothing in some way, suggesting a colour block theme (i.e. everyone comes dressed in white and/or yellow) is an easy yet effective way to bring the group together. You could also hand out cute yellow flowers for everyone's hair as they arrive - a sweet accessory that people of all ages will love!

And finally, if you're looking for a way to make your bride-to-be stand out, ask her to arrive in a yellow outfit while everyone else arrives in white (or vice versa)!

Food:

Starting with foods for the citrus lovers; with lemon meringue pie, lemon slice, lemon chicken, lemon scones, lemon cheesecake, lemon tart, lemon cake and lemon crumble being just some of the many lemony recipes available, it's easy to find a sour snack (or meal) perfect for your occasion.

If you don't really enjoy the flavour of this fruit, but want to stay in theme, try to stick to foods that match your colour palette instead. Using the example palette of yellows, greens and neutral tones, serving a range of foods that feature these colours is an easy way to tie your edibles to the rest of the celebration.

Some example foods for this purpose include donuts, cakes and cupcakes with coloured icing, cake pops (once again iced in one of your party colours), green salads, potato chips, mini sandwiches, bagels, lollies, cheese and crackers, etc. Get creative and have fun with what you serve!

And finally, there is the option of signage. Rather than stressing about colours, place a themed sign on the table that encourages guests to dig in! At your Main Squeeze party, this sign could say something along the lines of 'Let's Squeeze in Some Food!' (for example).

Drinks:

Similar to the food options above, there are a few ways you can go about theming your beverages!

White wine, champagne and cider are not only delish, but due to their yellowish colour will also fit in nicely with the rest of your food and decorations. Yellow and white cocktails are also a great beverage choice (such as the 'Lemon Drop', 'Yellow Bird', and 'White Chocolate Martini'); as are cheeky punch recipes that result in a gorgeous, golden refreshment!

For those who want to incorporate lemons in their drink menu, you really can't go past a good old fashioned lemonade bar/stand! Allow guests to mix their own concoctions by providing pre-made lemonade alongside shot glasses and a range of alcohol (such as gin, vodka and peach schnapps). This gives non-drinkers the chance to quench their thirst with traditional lemonade, and others a fun mixing activity that could result in some delicious (and not quite right!) new drinks.

Handy tip: Sliced lemon looks (and tastes!) great in water. You can also add slices to your ice-block tray - fill with water, freeze and offer to guests for a themed, icy addition to their drink.

Decorations:

First of all, you will need to decide on the type of 'look' you're after. A white base (e.g. tablecloths, serving bowls, etc.) is fantastic for emphasising colours and giving you a bright, fresh feel; whereas a wooden base (e.g. wooden or palette tables) will add more of a rustic vibe.

Once you have this sorted, it's time to start adding colour! Use a mix of yellows, greens and white, along with rustic accents if you wish (such as burlap and twine, wooden display boxes, etc.).

As this theme is dedicated to lemons, don't be afraid to use them! They look fantastic in bowls, strategically placed on tables (amongst greenery), sliced up in jugs of water, sliced up and frozen to create gorgeous ice-cubes and more.

Yellow and white flowers mixed in with green leaves will look fabulous on tables, beside doorways, and near anything you wish to draw guests' attention to (a photobooth, for example). Flower garlands are amazing, too (however will cost a pretty penny!). And while we're on the topic of natural décor, potted lemon trees (or any kind of potted indoor plants) are a great way to bring some more colour to your venue.

In addition to the above, latex balloons can also be a welcome inclusion. A garland created with white and yellow balloons of all sizes would look absolutely stunning, especially if you added some natural greenery to it as well.

Framed signs (such as those found in the 'Main Squeeze' themed printable section) are a great way to theme your event whilst also letting guests' know what's around. Whether it be to welcome guests to the party, used as an addition to food and drink tables, to guide guests in taking favours, etc., these signs are helpful, sweet and compliment the overall décor nicely.

And finally, if you want to give your celebration a relaxed ambience, little fairy lights and/or festoon lights are a great option. They will lighten up your party in the best possible way as nightfall approaches!

MAIN SQUEEZE THEMED GAMES & ACTIVITIES

Sell it:

First you will need to put together a pack of lemon related objects/products. How ludicrous these items are is entirely dependent on the vibe of your party (e.g. if you want 18+ shenanigans, include some cheekier items. Want to keep things a little more low key? Stick to items that won't offend). Example products/objects include: Lemon flavoured kombucha, actual lemons picked from a tree, lemon soap bars, lemon tree seedlings, box of lemon flavoured tea bags, outfits with lemon themed prints (search the op shop for these!).

When it comes time to play, give this pack to your hen and explain that she is to try and sell what's inside throughout the night! Any money she manages to make should go towards buying something she really wants (such as a cocktail or that food she's been craving all afternoon).

The Lemon:

At the start of the celebration, hand a yellow peg (with a cute lemon cut-out stuck to it... if you wish!) to one lucky guest - they are the 'lemon'!

It is their mission to try and attach this little peg to another guest without that person noticing.

When they have successfully attached the peg to someone, they count down from 10 as loud as they can. If they reach 0 without the peg being found, the pegged person becomes 'the lemon'.

However, if the peg is found before reaching 0, they must complete a punishment (such as taking a big swig from her drink, or putting on a costume accessory) before finding the next victim!

Cocktail Masterclass:

Fun to make and incredibly delicious, what's not to love about a cocktail masterclass?! Learn how to create the best of the best yellow, white and/or green cocktails at the hands of a pro. Following the lesson, you can then enjoy sipping on your creations whilst digging into some food, sharing some laughs and basically having a good time!

Colourful Makeover:

Pamper your bride-to-be and her guests with a makeover (that has a slight twist!). Rather than sticking to neutral tones, this party is all about having fun and trying something bold - something new! Ask the makeup artist to take inspiration from your theme when completing each person's 'look'. Think bright yellow eyeshadow, glittery yellow lips, shimmering lemon stencils on cheeks and more!

Get Creative in the Kitchen:

Does your best friend have a favourite lemon inspired food? Whether it be lemon tart or lemon gelati, book in for a class that demonstrates exactly how to make it. This activity not only provides skills that can be used in daily life (hello new favourite dish!), but will also give your bride-to-be and her gals the chance to sit down, relax and indulge in some delicious homemade goodness as a group.

Scavenger Hunt:

This scavenger hunt is all about tracking down the best lemony goodness your town has to offer! To play, make a list of items that guests will have to find and photograph themselves with. For example, enjoy a lemon flavoured beer at [insert pub name], enjoy a lemon cider from [insert bar name], hide amongst yellow flowers, stand next to a tall lemon tree, pose with a box of lemons, eat a lemon flavoured food, etc. Have a prize for the team/individual who completes everything on their list first!

HEN PARTY INSPIRATION

HEN PARTY BUCKET LIST

To play, you will need: Some intel on what your bride-to-be would love to try. This could be anything from pole dancing through to eating a giant doughnut! You will also need enough checklists for everyone in the group.

Game instructions: It's a scavenger hunt... but with items the bride-to-be has always wanted to do! Have a chat with your best friend (and/or her fiancé if you would like to keep it a bit more on the down-low) and find out what she would love to experience in your local city (bonus points if she's never done it before!). Type up the activities she mentions, making sure that each item is placed alongside a section for guests to tick once the task has been completed. Once your 'bucket list' is finalised, print them off (one per person attending the celebration).

Example items include, but are not limited to, 'be part of a flash mob', 'dance on a table', 'sing karaoke', 'go to a theme park', 'learn to pole dance', eat a giant donut,' etc.

On the day, hand the bride and her guests' a 'bucket list' before heading out and about. Explain that the aim of the game is to complete the list with the bride-to-be (and to get photo evidence along the way!). When the group finishes all of the tasks on the list, EVERYONE will receive a special prize (this could be a surprise dinner that you organised prior to the day, mini favours - such as small bottles of wine, and so on).

WEDDING VOW MAD LIBS

To play, you will need: Pre-written wedding vows, printed playing cards, pens or pencils.

Game instructions: Before the party, find some pre-written wedding vows. Re-type them, but remove all of the adjectives, verbs and nouns (leaving a space for guests to fill in their own words instead). Print off your mad libs playing cards ready for the celebration! Now, there are two ways to play this game.

The first; split guests into two (or more) teams - with each team appointing one captain. Hand the captains a vow mad libs playing card and explain that they aren't to let anyone else in their team sneak a peek! Team captains then ask their members to, one-by-one, come up with fun, funny and creative nouns, adjectives or verbs. Fill in the words in the appropriate spaces and you will eventually have a completed set of vows. Have one person from each team take part in a mock ceremony whereby the hilarious vows are read to each other in front of their adoring friends!

The second option is playing this vow mad libs game with the entire group... without their knowledge! Rather than showing guests' what they're taking part in, simply ask them to give you the first noun, adjective or verb that comes to mind (depending on the section of the vows you are up to). Fill in their answers as you go. At the end of the celebration, have your bride-to-be read out her wedding vows to the group - prepare for giggles!

REAL PARTIES: BRIDAL SHOWER

Designed to inspire, these snippets of 'Real Parties' will demonstrate what other bridesmaids have organised in the past. Today, we look at a beautiful, relaxed celebration; where Jeanene of Winederlust was asked to work her magic. This is what she had to say about the day!

What was the event?

Bridal shower afternoon tea (including a wine tasting)

Details from the day:

"The organiser and I were in contact and decided that mystery wines from regions special to the bride and groom would be fun. The organiser got some local intel from the groom and I sourced wines from (or as near to) for tastings.

It was a lovely afternoon. I was there for an hour, showcasing some different wines, where the guests had to guess the variety of grape, then the bride talked about why the region was special. The guests had a wonderful time. Many learned a few new things about wine, and others learned about some new labels to check out!"

FOOD & DRINK TIPS

GIN PUNCH

RECIPE PROVIDED BY: MELANIE OF 'IMBUE DISTILLERY'

A delicious punch using Imbue Distillery's All Seasons Gin Liqueur (spiced with cinnamon and star anise)! This is great for no stress catering (which is exactly what you need when there are already so many items on your event 'to do list'). Find ingredients and recipe below:

INGREDIENTS

All Seasons Gin Liqueur

Ginger Beer

Soda Water

Ice

Sliced Citrus/Stone Fruit/Berries

METHOD

Simply combine 1 part All Seasons Gin liqueur, 2 parts Ginger Beer (depending on the brand of Ginger Beer and how sweet it is, you may like to add 1 part soda water, too), ice and your sliced citrus/stone fruit/berries in a large jug. Mix to combine.

GRAZING TABLE TIPS

ARTICLE WRITTEN BY BEC OF 'FOR EVERY HEN'

Whether it's a bridal shower, kitchen tea, hen party, or any other kind of event, grazing tables and/or platters are always a hit! Not only do they give you the freedom to serve up a variety of goodies, play with different textures and get creative, but they're also really fun to put together! If you're considering serving up your very own foodie masterpiece at your next celebration, the following grazing table ideas and tips are bound to get you inspired!

PLAN IT OUT

Grazing tables can sometimes look as though they've been thrown together on a whim (all the while looking amazing!). However there is often quite a lot of thought that goes into the final product. Below are a few things to think about before getting started:

What type of table is it?

It's time to decide what type of food you want to serve! Will you be dishing up savoury items only? A dessert board? Will it be gluten free? Vegan? Vegetarian? Meat lovers? A mix? Or will you be creating two/more separate grazing tables so that you can cater for a range of options?

Does your table have a theme?

If your celebration has a colour palette that you don't want to move away from, it can be incredibly fun to bring the theme to your grazing table!

For example, if you're using lots of pink at your celebration, stick with foods that are either neutral in colour (i.e. browns, creams and whites) and/or those with pinkish tones. Items such as strawberries, watermelon, donuts, macarons, biscuits, raspberries, lollies, dips, breadsticks, crackers, etc. will result in an eye-catching table that compliments your event nicely.

If a themed grazing table is something you are eager to pursue, make the call early. The foods required to pull this off will have to be well thought out to ensure that the table works as planned. It's not hard to do, but it's best to do it before purchasing any products as you don't want to waste your hard earned cash on items that don't end up getting used!

Set a budget:

Grazing tables are SO much fun to put together. But products add up quickly. Make sure your excitement doesn't result in spending more than you intended - set a budget and do your best to stick to it!

Don't be afraid to mix it up!

Grazing tables are all about providing guests with a range of options. So have fun with it! Liz of Owl B Baking puts it perfectly when stating that you need to "be mindful to select a range of things that have different flavour and textural elements. Chocolate, vanilla, fruity, nutty, creamy, salty, crunchy, chewy". You can view the variety of textures used in her wonderful Dessert Charcuterie Board by clicking here.

Write a shopping list

Before heading to the shops, make sure you have a plan (that is, a shopping list!). Whilst some items at the supermarket might pop out and be a late addition to your creation, it's recommended that you have an idea of what you definitely do and don't need before spending any money. This includes any ingredients for recipes you intend to make (mini cupcakes, for example).

Get sketching!

And finally, prior to putting your masterpiece together, Liz of Owl B Baking has the incredibly helpful suggestion of "planning out the arrangement by sketching it on paper first". This is due to the fact that "while you can certainly start over, you don't want to have to be handling the food too much".

So put your thinking cap on, grab some paper and pencils, and roughly decide where each of your delicious goodies will be placed. If you don't stick to your 'map' 100% that's absolutely fine! But having a vague idea of what you're going to do will definitely work in your favor!

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

You've planned everything to a tee, now let the fun begin! This is where you can really let your creative juices flow. Angles, textures, colours, heights and more will make this spread your own. Below are some grazing table ideas and tips to help with the setup:

Add interest:

Contrasting heights will instantly give your table a difference, as will bowls and platters used specifically for dips and/or foods that can't be mixed with other items (such as watermelon).

It's not all about the food:

If you think something's missing from your edible design, consider additional décor. This could come in the form of candles, flowers, greenery or anything that ties in with your overall theme and complements the work of art you've already created.

Sticking with the above options, here are a few ways you can decorate the table with inedible items:

- Candles can be strategically placed around or within the platter (mason jars of all shapes and sizes filled with tealight candles are great for this).
- Greenery can be hung directly above the table and/or used to frame the spread.
- Pretty blooms can be placed amongst the food (either in vases or as single flowers) or added to any greenery you've chosen to use.

When it comes to alternative items that tie in with your overall theme, the list is quite endless!

For example, if you're hosting a Christmas themed celebration, welcome additions to the table may include baubles, fairy lights and/or wooden table raisers. You could even use a mini Christmas tree as the main focal point - place it in the centre of the table and create your platter from there.

On the flip side, a tea party theme may suit teapots filled with flowers, teacups filled with dips, and sweet cake stands to add some height.

Simply beautiful:

Rather than going all out - keep it simple! Let the food speak for itself, because sometimes less really is more.

AWESOME EXTRAS

SAVE $$$ WITH THIS PLANNING HACK!

Our planning hack for this issue is: decorating on a budget

Rather than heading to the shops, take a trip to your cupboard! Fairy lights/colourful lights are often hidden away in Christmas boxes, and they're perfect for creating a stunning atmosphere at celebrations. Old sheets can be cut up and used for bunting (cut to the shape you like - triangles, rectangles or squares are quite popular) and then either glue to string/twine or sew together. If you're a bit of a pro with the sewing machine, sheets can also be turned into stunning table runners, table cloths and/or DIY photo booth backdrops.

Mason jars are another great tool for decorating. Clean and save any that come through your kitchen and then use as either drinking glasses, vases or as tealight candle holders on the day.

Indoor plants are a fabulous way to add some colour to the venue, as are freshly picked flowers from your garden. If you have the time to get a bit crafty prior to the celebration, dried floral arrangements look amazing (plus they make a great keepsake for the bride-to-be following her special day!).

And finally, if you can't find what you're after in your own home, there's no harm in asking family and friends what they have stored away. You never know what treasures they may have lying around (anything from tables and chairs through to paper lanterns or festoon lights) that go perfectly with your theme!

EXCITING ANNOUNCEMENT!

You've asked, and we've listened! We've had many wonderful bridesmaids express how hard it is to track down group accommodation, to find what's on in their local city (that is suited to pre-wedding celebrations), to find vendors who provide the product/service they're looking for, etc.

This is why we are so excited to announce that there is a NEW section of For Every hen dedicated to ALL of this (i.e. vendors, venues, upcoming events) and more!

To make this part of your event planning as easy as possible, we have collated all of the info we have in one place. Meaning with the click of a button you can now find what's on (and who's around) for hen parties, bridal showers and kitchen teas in your selected state. You will find all of these new pages on the main menu of our website.

These pages will be updated as new information comes to hand. If you have any tips for us (whether it be venues that went out of their way to make your day incredible, group accommodation that was LOVED by all, vendors who were amazing at their job and left you wanting more, etc.) please do get in touch and we'll add them to the list for everyone to enjoy!
